

Career Advisory Board

The Career Advisory Board recognizes the difficulty of objectively thinking about something you are closely tied to – your life.

The Board should be people who the student trusts to give them career advice and are willing to help them identify their Right Career. Normally it will have three members. Examples of people who could be Board members are:

Family: parents, other family members (e.g. an older sibling, an aunt/uncle, a grandparent and in-law)

Friends: parent of a close friend, a close friend

Network: high school adviser, college adviser, a Professor, a coach, an experienced adult (e.g. an executive), someone from an internship, a professional coach.

The student realizes they are asking you for a significant commitment of your time and attention – you probably will invest 3 – 5 hours of time during the 10 week Program. This is part of the MyRightCareer Internship Program and the student will be investing from 40 to 60 hours during this same period.

The Career Advisory Board will probably never meet as a group. Instead you will meet with the student individually. Most of these meetings can take place over the phone.

You will be reviewing the student's work and having a dialogue with them three times during the Program.

- 1st review will be after they finish the 3rd Assignment, around week #4. In this review they will be sharing all they have learned by looking forward (the Begin at the End exercise) and looking backwards (autobiography, accomplishments/stories, skills and drivers).
- 2nd Review will be after they finish the 5th Assignment. In this review they will be sharing the results of all the assessments they have taken (e.g. StrengthsFinder, Meyers-Briggs, Do What You Are, Strong Interest & Strong/Meyers-Briggs). Since you would probably still be doing your 1st Reviews this one will probably start around Week #7.
- 3rd (and final) Review will be after their Capstone project. In this project they are identifying their Right Career and building their Sales Story as to why they are the Right person for their Right Career. That would be some time after week #10, probably two or three weeks after the finish of the Program so they can absorb and summarize what they have discovered during the MyRightCareer Program.
